

TEN MILLION DAMAGE TO ALBANY CAPITAL

New York State Buildings Smoked and Drenched—West Wing Gone and Whole Interior Shattered

Albany, N. Y., March 29.—Fire swept, smoke strewn and water drenched, New York state's magnificent $7,000,000 capital stands this morning a partial wreck by flames that started in the assembly library, and burned away the entire west wing and did damage estimated at ten million dollars before the flames were under control, after raging more than four hours. It is believed that the fire started by a push button becoming electrified. It was discovered by a night watchman, and the alarm sounded at 2:46 o'clock.

Before the firemen reached the massive structure, priceless documents, books and records stored in the assembly library had been destroyed and other departments were being threatened. The imitation oak ceiling of the assembly room, composed of paper mache, was partially destroyed, as was also the famous million dollar staircase in the west wing on the third floor, where the flames gained their start. Departments wholly or partially destroyed by fire or seriously damaged by water are the state library, containing 400,000 volumes, among them the most valuable geological works in the United States, together with relics and priceless documents, some of them dating back to 1776 and irreplaceable; the assembly and senate libraries, stored with thousands of volumes of law and code books, also a number of documents and manuscripts that can never be replaced; the finance committee room, in which were stored drafts of all appropriation and other bills of the present session; the chamber of the president pro. tem. of the senate; the lieutenant-governor's room, badly damaged but not wrecked; the senate and assembly rooms, flooded with water, ruining rich furnishings, and dozens of department and official offices on the fourth floor entirely burned out.

MONEY BY LAWS WILL BE SUBMITTED TO RATEPAYERS APRIL 24

Provide for Expenditure of $670,625 This Year—Solicitor Instructed to Prepare Agreement With Gas Co.

On Monday, April 24, the ratepayers of Edmonton will be called upon to vote upon twenty-two money by-laws, to raise an aggregate sum for the season's expenditure on capital account of $670,625. The council, at the regular meeting last evening gave final passage to the by-laws to raise debenture funds from which these expenditures will be made.

The items vary from $1,000 for the purchase of fire-alarm bells, to the estimated outlay for the year in extension to the power and pumping plant, and the terms from eight to forty years. This latter figure, however, provides for the most costly of the four alternative types of pumping and power machinery which the commissioners now have before them for consideration. It is altogether unlikely that so large a sum as is provided for in the by-law will be spent, and in the event of the less expensive machinery being installed, debentures will only be issued for the amount required.

The council adopted a more expeditious manner of passing the money by-laws than has been known in any previous instance, and in less than an hour the twenty-two by-laws had been disposed of. The reading of the legal verbiage which is an integral part of

G.T.P. MAY TAKE UP OPTIONS ON McDONOUGH PROPERTY

PRESENCE OF RAILWAY OFFICIALS IN CITY TODAY IS SIGNIFICANT—UNDERSTOOD COMPANY READY TO BUILD HOTEL

Grand Trunk Pacific officials on property on McDougall avenue south, including options of the Grand View hotel property, the Travis Barker property, and the John McDougall property, with an option on the Grand View house front lease, will expire within a few weeks.

In view of this, the presence in the city today of W. P. Hinton, general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and D'Arcy Tate, general solicitor for the company, is very significant. Mr. Hinton and Mr. Tate reached the city last evening from Winnipeg. Mr. Hinton had only just returned to Winnipeg from the Pacific coast, and it is believed that his trip to Edmonton is of considerable importance at the present time.

Following the announcement from Winnipeg this week, that the G. T. P. had a big hotel in Edmonton, it is anticipated that the officials are here for the purpose of possibly taking up the options on property on McDougall avenue. The options will expire about

MANY SETTLERS COMING OVER G.T.P.

Special Will Leave Toronto on April 4th—Will Settle in Saskatchewan.

The Grand Trunk Pacific railway is preparing to bring in a very large number of settlers to the Edmonton district this year, according to W. P. Hinton, general passenger agent of the railway, who is a guest at the King Edward today.

To the Capital this morning, Mr. Hinton expressed his opinion that this summer would see a vast movement of settlers into Alberta, and particularly to this portion of the province, as well as into Saskatchewan.

On April 4th, the Grand Trunk Pacific will bring west a special excursion of settlers, for the provincial publicist department. These settlers will come from Toronto, and will be brought by special train by way of Chicago, riding through the northwestern states.

One of the parties that the railway company is bringing in, is a party of Welsh farmers that will settle near Alder, Saskatchewan. These are now on the way from the old country.

Mr. Hinton expects also that tourist trade through Edmonton to the mountains over this line will commence this year, and that it will be fairly heavy. Several parties are expected to be coming some time in the new Jasper park.

Mr. Hinton made the statement that the plans for the entrance of the G. T. P. into Calgary had been approved, and that the railway company were preparing to build passenger station there. The line will be completed into Calgary this summer.

FORMAL OPENING OF OLIVER SCHOOL

Will Be Performed on Friday Evening by Hon. C. R. Mitchell, Minister of Education.

The opening ceremony in connection with the Oliver school, which has been erected on Seventeenth street, at a cost of $125,000, will be performed on Friday evening by Hon. C. R. Mitchell, minister of education, for the province. The ceremony will take place at 8 p. m., and a programme suitable to the occasion of the opening of Edmonton's newest and most handsomely equipped school has been arranged by Supl. McGeach and the teachers of the school staff.

Speeches will be delivered by Mr. Mitchell, and by J. F. Fowler, chairman of the board of trustees of the Westlawn school district, by H. A. Sinnott, chairman of the Calgary school board, and other public men. Invitations have been extended to the mayor and council of the city, and to the trustees of various school districts throughout the province. Each member of the evening vocal and instrumental music will be rendered by local musicians, and Turner's orchestra will be in attendance. At the conclusion of the programme refreshments will be served by the teachers' club and a number of ladies of the liver school district.

TO ADDRESS JEWELLERS.

Providence, R. I., March 29.—The New England Jewellers and Silversmiths' association, which entertained President Taft last year, has provided for noted speakers at its annual banquet here Saturday night. Among those who will be heard are Attorney-General Wickesherman, ex-congressman J. Adam Bede of Minnesota and Prof. William P. Shepherd of Columbia university.

GAS PROJECT IS SHEER FOOL SAYS CAPTAIN OF INDUSTRY

E. F. Hutchings, Who Knows Gas Situation, Says Proposition With International Co. is Utterly Foolish, in View of Prospects for Natural Gas Soon

Termining as utterly insane the city council's action in deciding to deal with the International Meeting Co. of Cleveland, for $118 gas, with a 25 year franchise, in view of the prospects for natural gas in the district, E. F. Hutchings, of Winnipeg, one of the captains of the industry, the week, a man conversant with the gas situation in the province, this morning gave to the Capital an interview in which he set forth in strong language the great disadvantages of the proposition as proposed by the industrial committee of the council.

This proposition, as submitted to the council in the report of the industrial committee, last evening, would result in tying the city up to a 25-year

MAJOR ARMSTRONG ON THE GAS PROJECT.

Let this never be proved to me that a municipal gas plant cannot be made to operate successfully and profitably, said Major Armstrong, in the Capital, when discussing the report of the industrial committee, on the deal with the International Heating Company.

"I have always been in favor of building a by-law for a municipal plant to the citizens first, and if they are not in favor of a municipally operated plant, then it is time enough to deal with a private company."

The reason that I did not submit a minority report on the International Company project, was that every member of the industrial committee knew my attitude on the question."

And Mr. Hutchings is another of the kind who agrees with the opinions of the mayor. He believes that a municipal plant by-law should first be submitted to the citizens, and that before a private company is dealt with.

HUTCHINGS BUYS WAREHOUSE SITE

His Store Block To Go Up on Third St. Instead of Jasper—May Also Build Block on Main Street.

Property of Third street, with tracings, at which will be erected their six-story warehouse, was purchased yesterday at good prices, by E. F. and J. J. Hutchings, of the Great West, who also intend to purchase property on Fourth street for speculation purposes.

At the company have decided to abandon the site on Jasper street, between sixth and seventh, as a site for their warehouse, and have the advantage of the trucking facilities.

To the Capital this morning, Mr. E. F. Hutchings said: "We will start our new building which will be built on Third. The plans are now being drawn. We have decided not to build on the Jasper property, but we may build another block on that property this year."

At the Hutchings are now preparing the plans for the six-story warehouse that is to be built by Mr. Hutchings. The building is to be built on the site of the block will be called for shortly.

CONTRACTS LET FOR BEEF SUPPLY

Robert Shaw, M. P., Will Furnish 1,000 Head of Cattle to Irrigation Camps This Season.

Contracts for the supply of beef cattle to the several large contractors in the south country, have been received by Robert L. Shaw, M.P., at Stettin.

One of the contracts received by Mr. Shaw is for the supply of beef to the contractors on the big C. P. Irrigation plant east of Calgary.

"I expect to supply the ditch contractors with 1,000 head of cattle this season," said Mr. Shaw this morning. "Each man in the business on an average eats one full beef during the season."

WESTERN SCIENTISTS ORGANIZE

B. G. W. Collier, Cal. March 29.—The Pacific Association of Scientific Societies began a two days' meeting here today, with a large and representative attendance of educators and others. Plans for the formation of a western auxiliary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science are to be discussed at the meeting.

Dr. Benjamin M. March, 29.—G. Anderson lies in the hospital here in a precarious condition with sixteen stitches in his head, the wound having been caused in a fight between Anderson and D. Thibert after dark last night. Thibert has disappeared.

STEEL TO BE LAID ON BRAZEAU LINE

C. N. R. Steel Gang Will Go to Stettin Soon to Lay Rails on New Line West.

Steel will be laid on the 70 miles of Canadian Northern grade that has been completed on the line from Stettin towards the Brazeau coal fields. The steel laying machine is now on the way up, from Winnipeg, and Duncan Campbell, the head steel man of the railway company, will reach the city shortly to secure steel gangs for the work.

It is the intention of the railway company to complete the line to the Brazeau fields this year if possible. Seventy miles of the grade is finished, and the next few months, steel within the next few months.

It is expected that steel will also be laid on some of the lines out of Edmonton.

NEW RAILWAY LINES TO CALGARY

G. T. P. to Have Station on Barrecks Grounds—C. N. R. Will Not Cross The Elbow.

Calgary, March 29.—The Grand Trunk Pacific plans of the entrance to the city were approved by the city at a meeting this afternoon. The final route shows a crossing of the Elbow river a short distance above the city, and will keep its station on the south side. That is the final decision which was confirmed this afternoon from the city council.

The Canadian Northern railway has decided not to cross the Elbow river at all, but keep its station on the south side. That is the final decision which was confirmed this afternoon from the city council.

The company owns 130 acres comprising the Lindsay estate and will establish its station and yards there.

The exact location of the depot is not yet decided, but it will probably be at the crossing of Second street east.

LAKE CITIES ARE OPPOSING BILL

Delegates from Port Arthur and Fort William Appear Before Committee of the Senate.

Ottawa, March 29.—The mayors of Port Arthur and Fort William together with a delegation representing the lake cities, appeared before the committee on the grain bill today and supported the elevator owners in their request that certain clauses in the grain bill be struck out so as to allow the same companies to deal in grain and operate terminal elevators.

E. R. Wayland, a grain exporter of Port Arthur, said the present system of operating terminal elevators was satisfactory to the grain trade, but he advocated the establishment of a sample elevator at Liverpool from which wheat brought about three cents a bushel more at Liverpool than American wheat of the same grade, but Minneapolis prices were generally above Winnipeg and at the border town the price paid to the farmers was frequently from 10 to 15 cents higher on the American side than on the Canadian side for wheat of the same grade.

States No Evidence Showing Motion Was Irregular Was Produced In Court

HOLDS OFFICE ONLY AT PLEASURE OF COUNCIL

Point Out That Disqualification of Aldermen Would Make it Practically Impossible to Remove Commissioner Even Though Majority of Ratepayers Called for His Retirement from Office

In reply to the argument of O. M. Biggar, K. C., in the case of Gallagher vs. Armstrong, in which a permanent injunction is sought to restrain the council from discharging A. V. Bouillon, W. L. Walsh, K. C., counsel for the city, asks for a dismissal of the action on all grounds. He states that no evidence of the irregularity of the motion dismissing the commissioner was produced in court, and that the motion of January 21, with the commissioner was discharged from office, has not been shown to be other than in accordance with the regular procedure. The resolution, he contends, stands valid today, and even were it otherwise, a mere irregularity in the passage would not necessarily vitiate it. "Formal action to waive the rules in cases of this kind," Mr. Walsh contends, "is not always necessary."

That Com. Bouillon will come in effect the permanent commissioner of Edmonton, and that all power to remove him would be taken out of the ratepayers' hands, if the plaintiff should succeed in his action, is the contention of the counsel for the city. He points out that the disqualification of aldermen on the ground of bias, on the strength of declarations made by them and quoted by Mr. Biggar, would render Mr. Bouillon practically irremovable from office. Should the aldermen resign, and a new election take place, the issue would inevitably centre round the dismissal or retention of Com. Bouillon. Any candidate who declared himself as in favor of dispensing with the commissioner's services would be rendered incompetent to vote on this question, were he to be elected, and even the vote of the ratepayers who desired the commissioner's dismissal would be invalid.

STATHCONA HEADQUARTERS OF C.P.R. DINING CAR SERVICE

WHYTE AVENUE BUSINESS SITE BRINGS SUBSTANTIAL FIGURE—COUNCIL DISPOSES OF LARGE GRIST OF ROUTINE BUSINESS.

Strathcona, March 29.—It was only by stretching slightly the regulation of procedure and curtailing rather than the usual routine of several by-laws that the council escaped suspension of the eleven o'clock rule last night. A large amount of business was transacted, and the council attended before the Senate committee on the grain bill today and supported the elevator owners in their request that certain clauses in the grain bill be struck out so as to allow the same companies to deal in grain and operate terminal elevators.

E. R. Wayland, a grain exporter of Port Arthur, said the present system of operating terminal elevators was satisfactory to the grain trade, but he advocated the establishment of a sample elevator at Liverpool from which wheat brought about three cents a bushel more at Liverpool than American wheat of the same grade, but Minneapolis prices were generally above Winnipeg and at the border town the price paid to the farmers was frequently from 10 to 15 cents higher on the American side than on the Canadian side for wheat of the same grade.

That Prof. Edwards' services as testing expert be retained by the city for the water supply until such time as an ample filtered supply is obtained. It was pointed out in connection with this that the new intake is completed as far as the work will be carried out this spring and that the tunnel for some distance out from the bank is being filled with gravel thus providing an excellent and filtered drainage into the deep wells.

That the new type of earth pits for closets as proposed by the sanitary inspector be adopted with slight modifications.

That the matter of opening certain lanes, now in objectionable state from a health point of view, be taken up.

That the city and the street railway of Edmonton sweep and sprinkle daily when required the paved portion of the street.

Object to Nuisance Ground. In connection of the whole upon a question raised by Ald. Collier about the further use of the present nuisance grounds, Mayor Davies said it was proposed to the system but there was nothing else to do for the present, no other place to get a site. He felt that a new system of disposal ought to be considered.

Ald. Tatum uttered a strong protest against the further use of the present grounds along the Calgary trail and within a short distance of the city center. He declared that the location of the place was an outrage upon

THIRD POLITICAL PARTY TO BE CREATED IN STATES

PROGRESSIVES COMPOSED PARTLY OF REPUBLICANS AND PARTLY DEMOCRATS TO COME INTO BEING AT SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS.

Washington, Mar. 29.—When the United States senate meets in special session April 4, a situation utterly dissimilar to any presented in the last quarter of a century of its parliamentary history will develop. The crux of this situation will be the crystallization of a third party in Congress—a "progressive wing," partly drawn from the Republicans and partly from the Democratic party, leagued to defend the interests of the people against Special Privilege.

Hitherto the Progressives have been known as insurgents. They formed a revolutionary band, practically without organization, and fought the pioneer battle against the Aldrich oligarchy, in the face of the most unscrupulous tactics by their opponents. The result of the last election has strengthened their position wonderfully and they are now past the radical allies on both sides of the chamber they are in a position to dominate the senate from this time forward. The strong arm of Aldrich, whose leadership maintained absolute control for big business interests in the senate for so many years, is gone, and he has no successor.

Ten Republican Progressives.
The Republican Progressives are in number, with several others who are strongly progressive in tendency. Those ten are: Clapp, LaFollette, Gronna, Thorpe, Bourne, Bristow, Cummins, Townsend, Works and Pendexter. Senator Beveridge could be counted as a Progressive, if he had succeeded in his fight for re-election. His successor John W. Kern, is regarded as a good Democratic Progressive, so no vote was lost for the cause in Beveridge's defeat.

By combining with the Democrats when expedient, and withdrawing their support from the Republican organization on all measures obviously in the interests of large corporations, the Progressives plan to exercise a controlling interest in the extra session of Congress.

On the question of Canadian reciprocity, the consideration of which was the specific purpose for which the extra session was called, and on the general question of tariff revision the Progressives will be able to swing the determining votes on any straight party lineup. Should the Democrats pursue a strong progressive policy they will be able to control the senate with the aid of the Progressive Republican wing.

With a heavy majority in the House of Representatives it should not be difficult for the Democrats to enact whatever legislation they desire into law. The only obstacle will be a possible presidential veto of progressive legislation.

That the Progressives will be of the greatest assistance to the Democrats in framing tariff legislation is generally conceded. Most of the tariff experts in the United States are Progressives, a fact which was demonstrated clearly enough in the great debate on the Payne-Aldrich bill in 1909. In this debate five of the Democratic senators made a scientific career only to gain desired protection for their home products. They assumed a distinctly provincial and parochial point of view. Now, however, they are committed to tariff revision, and to "tariff for revenue only," as a broad national policy.

Tariff for Revenue Only.
The present indications are that they intend to place this "tariff for revenue only" upon the statute books at the earliest possible moment. They will probably try the "piece meal scheme" of revision at the coming special session and first attack some of the schedules which are notoriously unjust. Complete tariff revision probably will not come until 1913, and then only in the case of Democratic success in the National elections in 1912.

The Progressives will render able assistance in this plan of revision schedule by schedule. Complications will arise unquestionably, out of the debate on the Canadian reciprocity agreement. Some Democrats favor making this agreement merely a "rider" to a general tariff bill and give President Taft the alternative of accepting both or gaining neither. Such a plan could be worked out provided there was no conflict between the reciprocity agreement and the tariff measure. Lower duties on certain commodities other than those specified in the agreement would not invalidate it, since Canada is willing to take as low a tariff as is offered to her, but higher duties would. Some of the Progressives are known to view the reciprocity agreement with disfavour, because of its discrimination against the farmers, without any compensating overtures in such matters, but they may be willing to waive their objections to gain a larger end.

Solid Front on Tariff.
While the Progressives will present a solid front on all tariff legislation, it is not likely that the Democrats will, and this factor in the situation may upset all the best plans which are now being formulated.

Senator Bailey's sensational resignation was really an outcropping of national feeling among the Democrats which had been brewing for some time. Bailey is likely to present a jump off the reservation and into the Republican camp on an important vote. He is a bitter opponent of such progressive measures as the initiative, referendum and recall, and he may show a reactionary tendency on the question of tariff revision. What influence he had, however, has been practically destroyed by his spectacular "resignation" and his withdrawal.

It is certain the Progressives are not going to form a fleeting alliance with the Democrats, unless the latter can affect a compact organization for revision of the tariff. However, they believe confidently that the Democrats with the infusion of new progressive blood, such as Kern, of Indiana; Hitchcock, of Nebraska; Pomeroy, of Ohio; and the Progressives; Martine, of New Jersey; and Williams, of Mississippi, will be able to hold their ranks practically unbroken. If this hope is realized the senate will be a citadel of legislation in the interest of the people opposed to big business for the next two years.

THOMAS L. JAMES 80 YEARS OLD

New York, March 29.—Gen. Thomas L. James, who was Postmaster-General to President Garfield's cabinet, received the congratulations of a host of friends today on the occasion of his eightieth birthday anniversary. Few men in the metropolis are better known than Gen. James. As Postmaster-General he made an enviable record by bringing to light the "star route" frauds and effecting reforms in the postal service that saved the government millions of dollars. His later career as executive head of the Lincoln National Bank, of which he has been president for many years, also has been characterized by administrative ability of the highest order.

LA FOLLETTE FOR PRESIDENT

Boston, Mass., March 29.—Republicans are anticipating with considerable interest the lecture that Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon is to deliver at a local club tomorrow night on "Delegated versus Popular Government." The lecture and the informal conferences to follow, it is understood here, will be the launching of Senator La Follette's candidacy for president. Senator Bourne, who is the founder of the National Progressive Republican League, is understood to have formed a political alliance with Senator La Follette and to have undertaken the task of capturing the New England delegation to the Republican convention of next year. The main plank of the Bourne platform is the initiative, referendum and recall.

THIRSTY BRITON RISKS LIFE FOR DRINK

Engineer Walks Across Beam, With Sheer Fifty-Foot Fall Below.

San Francisco, March 29.—Women guests at the Palace Hotel screamed in fright when they saw a man crawl through a bathroom window on the seventh floor of the building and begin to lower himself down the wall of the deep alcove that sheds light through the glassy canopy covering the Palace barroom.

And they screamed again when the man touched his toes to a steel beam spanning the alcove, released his hold on the window sill and started to walk along the narrow beam. Below the cross beam was a sheer fall of nearly fifty feet and if the man should lose his footing it meant certain death.

Frankie calls for help were shouted from room to room and a score of telephone calls to the hotel office piled up on the switchboard all at once.

Telephones for Highball
But all this did not phase the man on the narrow beam. Fully dressed, even to top coat and cap, he walked boldly across the beam to the farther side of the hutchway, opened the window of another room, climbed in and calmly telephoned for a highball.

D. Watson Kane, a young English engineer, who is said to be connected with the Westinghouse company, was the man who performed the daring and hazardous feat. After a day and a night of wrestling with highballs, Kane had been locked in his room on the seventh floor and denied the use of the telephone. He wanted a drink and wanted it badly, and being an engineer, he set about finding a means to the desired end. The bathroom window and the steel beam below appealed to him as the only way out of his enforced retirement—and he took the chance.

"I say, old fellow," said the Englishman, after he cleared the alcove and reached the telephone in another person's room, "won't you be good enough to send up a highball?"

Laughs at His Odd Joke
That same voice had been ordering highballs for forty-eight hours, according to the hotel management, and the latest call informed the army of anxious hotel employees where the thirsty fanatic might be found. When they rushed into the room that the Englishman had gained at the risk of his life, they found Kane comfortably seated in a deep chair, and he was laughing gently at the thought of the joke he had perpetrated on his keepers.

The young engineer was lured back to his own room and two bellboys were left to guard him during the night.

TO IMPROVE RURAL SCHOOLS

Louisville, Ky., March 29.—If plans discussed at the Kentucky Rural School conference here today are carried out the Blue Grass State will soon be able to boast of the best system of rural school education to be found anywhere in the country. The movement, which was launched something over a year ago, aimed at a consolidation and complete reorganization of the rural schools, that will bring them up to the same standard as the best city schools. The plan calls for the enactment of a state law giving to each county the right to issue bonds not to exceed $500,000 to establish the system of consolidated rural schools.

TRYING NEWARK'S LYONERS

Newark, N. J., March 29.—The case of Louis Houston, who is charged with first degree murder arising out of the lynching of Carl Etherington, an anti-semitic league detective, here, last July, was called for trial today. The case is regarded as the most important of any of these that have been tried, as Houston is charged with being one of the ring leaders of the mob. He is a prominent and influential politician of Newark and has engaged eminent counsel to conduct his defence.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN CONFERENCE.

Government by Injunction.
"If an action such as this can be maintained, by a ratepayer," Mr. Walsh says, "it seems impossible to say where the principle of government by injunction is to stop. If a street car conductor is threatened with his dismissal a ratepayer can sue to stop the threatened dismissal because the council might appoint as his successor a man who would either steal the fares or allow the attendant free transportation on the cars. One can easily see why it is that the necessity of the attorney general being a party to any action against corporations which involves only public rights or interests exists."

The oral argument which Mr. Walsh presented at the opening of the action in the Supreme Court, is referred to briefly, although his contention for a non-suit was fully elaborated when the hearing took place in Edmonton.

Mr. Walsh contends at the course of his general argument, that even if the plaintiff should establish a right to maintain his action, it is entirely at the discretion of the court, whether an injunction be granted. "This is essentially a case," he said, "in which the discretion of the court should be exercised in the public interest." Regarding a Nova Scotia case similar in its essentials to that which has been brought against the Edmonton City Council, Mr. Walsh quotes from a judgment by Justice Meagher in the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, to the effect that "if in such a case the court undertook to interfere with the free action of the council, it would assume functions which belong to that body alone, and thus we would have civic government by injunction instead of by ordinary course of aldermanic judgment and action by the council."

Scope of Plaintiff's Claim.

"The plaintiff's claim can be placed upon no higher ground than this, that upon Bouillon's dismissal some person less vigilant of the interests of the ratepayers might be appointed to his position, and that surely is not sufficient to entitle him to maintain the action. The Edmonton public is as much concerned in the question as are the ratepayers in a class."

Under the head of "general merits," Mr. Walsh declares:

"While it may be conceded that the commission system established by the Edmonton charter is an experiment in municipal administration of considerable importance, it surely cannot be seriously argued that its intention was to vest the administrative branch of the government in an individual who could disregard the instructions and treat with contempt the policy of the legislative branch and defy the power that created him."

"It is true that greater safeguards are thrown around the appointment of a commissioner and his removal from office is made more difficult than in the case with the ordinary servants of the municipality. This is so because the functions which he exercises are of more importance than those of the ordinary municipal officers. Notwithstanding this, the council is the supreme appointing and removing power. He holds office during the pleasure of the council. The power to remove for such cause as he shall deem sufficient is a power to remove without hearing." Citation attorney general vs. Cahill, 169 Mass, 18.

Notice and Hearing.

"Unless the dismissal could only be had for cause the council was under no obligation to give the commissioner notice of the complaints and a hearing of the same. If, on the other hand, the dismissal could only be effected for cause, the law seems to be clear that such notice and hearing should be given. In that event the defendant contend that what took place at the meeting of the committee of the whole council on the morning of Feb. 21 was a denial of justice. The council, in the complaint and a sufficient investigation of them to justify the subsequent proceedings. The inference from the evidence is irresistible that he knew of the investigation which was on foot and of the complaint that had been made and that the object of this meeting was to take up the same with him and threaten them out. A fair summary of what took place at that meeting is that he was offered an opportunity to clear and explain complaints that had been formulated as to his administration of the utilities and to take time to answer any question which he was not able to answer on the spot. That he refused this offer and declared his intention to decline to submit to any inquiry by the council or make his answer before any tribunal other than a judicial one, and the attitude of deliberate and studied insult adopted by him towards the council rendered any further inquiry by it an impossibility. If he had a right to this hearing, he waived it by what took place at this hearing."

Question of Interest.
Under the heading of interests under the charter council contends "that the proviso that no shareholder shall vote on any question affecting the company is clearly meant to prohibit an alien from voting in respect only of dealing had or contracts made with the company. To extend its meaning beyond that would lead to an absurdity. A company which is the owner of property in a municipality is affected by nearly every act that the council does. It is affected by the rate of taxation imposed by the council, the character and qualifications of the man who is appointed assessor, by every expenditure which leads to increased taxation. If the argument of the council for plaintiff's sound it must be carried to its logical conclusion that aldermen of the class in question could not vote on the above or kindred subjects because they are questions affecting the company. It is the dismissal of a man who is no more a question affecting the company than any one of the other questions above put."

Disqualification Aldermen.
Discussing the interest of Aldermen Grindley and Mould by the commissioner's dismissal, Mr. Walsh declares that there is absolutely nothing disclosed by the evidence to indicate any reason for these aldermen being interested in the dismissal of Bouillon. The bare fact is established that Grindley and Mould are shareholders in companies that have had and still have contractual relations with the city. These relations he points out existed before Mr. Bouillon's appointment.

"It certainly does seem to be stretch the law but the inference to be drawn from the situation disclosed by the evidence to an unwarranted extent to hold that simply because these men are shareholders in these companies they have such a disqualifying interest as should stop them from taking part in the performance of one of the most important of their public duties, namely the retention in office or dismissal from it of a man exercising so much power in the administration of civic affairs."

Mr. Walsh contends that Bouillon's refusal to explain the questions that were put to him at the special meeting of the council constitutes "plain and palpable evidence of his unfitness for the position" as in itself it afforded a cause satisfactory to them for his dismissal.

"If these defendants are disqualified from voting on the dismissal of Mr. Bouillon the same disqualification will exist with reference to every ratepayer of Edmonton who takes the slightest interest in municipal affairs. If the aldermen whose disqualification is sought are held to be disqualified the result will be that Mr. Bouillon cannot under any circumstances be relieved of office by the city council as at present constituted. For the vote which is required to bring about the dismissal is two thirds of all the members of the council and with these disqualified there would not be enough left to bring about his removal even if the remaining aldermen were unanimous in their view that if he should be removed, Mr. Walsh points out that if council were to resign at this time Mr. Bouillon's removal or retention would be the campaign issue with the result that the unsuccessful candidate would come into office plotted either to dismiss or retain, of the commissioner. If he were pleased to Bouillon's dismissal, no matter how large his majority, he would be incompetent to vote upon the question which he was returned to the council to deal with."

ARE LOOKING FOR A FINE SEASON HERE

LACROSSE ENTHUSIASTS EXPECT NATIONAL GAME WILL BE PLACED ON FIRM BASIS.

That lacrosse will be placed on such a firm basis here this season and that the response of lovers of the sport will be so enthusiastic as to warrant expenditures being made to bring to Edmonton the country's best talent is the hope of the leaders in the movement to put lacrosse on the level plane which it is entitled to. The big meeting to bring about the organization of teams will take place Thursday evening in the city council rooms and this will be the initial step in what is expected to prove the rejuvenation of the great game.

While there have been loud cries of "Dead" in reference to lacrosse, reports from the East are to the effect that the national game is making rapid strides in popularity. One must acknowledge that lacrosse is a game which is being played in the United States and that the following from the Toronto Globe:

"Before long we may see the lacrosse clubs of the U. S. going south to play in a baseball. The decision of President Murphy to open the season at an earlier date is a step in this direction. Manager Quenneville of the 'Peasants' has ordered his stalwarts to report Saturday, April 24th, which is the earliest any pro lacrosse team has ever been called together. To start sooner than this, a club would have to seek a warmer climate. Of course there is a limit—the whims of the fans and the weatherman cannot be entirely disregarded by the early birds. If half of the N. L. U. towns were south of here there would be nothing to it but training trips. The Baltimore lacrosse squads have been practising for two weeks now."

"WHITE HOPE" MORRIS WINS.

Sapulpa, Okla., March 29.—Carl Morris, the Oklahoma "white hope," clinched a step nearer to the championship here yesterday afternoon by knocking out Mike Shreck, of Cincinnati in the sixth round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout.

A third night look to Shreck's jaw after the fifth round had gone one minute and two seconds into the battle. The Cincinnati man felt heavily to the canvas and was counted out by the referee, Ed W. Cochran. There was never a moment after the first round that the result was in doubt. Morris completely outclassed his opponent. The champion rushed Shreck about the ring at will and landed most as he pleased. He showed in this fight that he could battle with both hands. Heretofore his work with his left hand had been slow. Shreck made a poor showing. He landed less than half a dozen clean blows on Morris. None of them carried force enough to cause the Oklahoma "white man's hope" any great worry.

High Honors

EUGENE SANDOW, STRONG MAN, IS MADE ATHLETIC TRAINER FOR KING GEORGE OF ENGLAND.

London, March 29.—King George of England, is probably the only sovereign in Europe who has an athletic trainer. He has just honored Eugene Sandow, strong man, with the appointment by royal warrant to be "Professor of Scientific and Physical Culture to His Majesty." The declaration, however, says that the honor is in recognition of Sandow's efforts to improve the physique of the rank and file of the British army rather than an acknowledgment that any personal benefit would be derived by the king from his services.

"CY" YOUNG 44 TODAY

Cleveland, O., March 29.—"Cy" Young, who has announced his intention to retire from the diamond at the close of this season, enters upon his forty-fifth year today, having been born March 29, 1886. The veteran pitcher began his remarkable career in the major leagues with the Cleveland club and will wear the uniform of the same club when he pitches his final game next October.

Young has played in the big leagues for twenty-one years and during that time he has won more than 500 games. He played with Cleveland until 1909 and then pitched two seasons for the St. Louis club. In 1909 he went to the Boston Americans and with that club he attained his greatest success. He helped Boston win the American League and world's championships, and was a most successful pitcher until two years ago, when he returned to the Cleveland club.

NORTH AND SOUTH GOLF TOURNEY

Pinehurst, N. C., March 29.—The tenth annual North and South amateur golf championship tournament, which is the banner event of the season, on the Pinehurst golf calendar, began on the local links today under conditions that promise a most successful event of its kind ever pulled off in the south. The play will last through the remainder of the week.

FAMOUS FRAME-UP WHEN FRANK GOTCH FOOLED THE COAST WRESTLING FANS

One of the most interesting wrestling frame-up stories known is that about the coup that first brought Dr. B. F. Rorer, of Seattle, to the front. About five years ago Rorer, who was a young practicing physician in Seattle, working rapidly up to fashionable clientele, was prevailed to take the post of physical director of the Seattle Amateur Athletic Club. At that time Rorer was a simple man, amateur, and he received no pay for his work at the club, the professional end of the game being in the hands of a former fighter, Lonny Austin. Rorer had been doing a bit of amateur wrestling with members of the club, and surprised everyone with the ease with which he tripped some of the best of the amateurs.

Gotch Barnstorming
Just at that time Frank Gotch was barnstorming at the coast with old Duncan MacMillan, John Carkeek, Dan McLeod, John Here (later known as "Sweet" Papineau), a couple of Indian fellows, and a bunch of old-timers and second rats. Gotch was managed by Frank Carroll, another of the old-timers, whose real name, Ole March, had become so odorous that he dropped it. Carroll heard about Rorer, and drifted up to the Seattle club one day to see what there was in the reports about the wonderful amateur. He saw enough to make him sit up, and within a few days it became known that Carroll had "split" with Gotch and that he was going to devote his time to teaching Rorer the points of the mat game. He worked with Rorer for several months, and then "sprung" him on the unsuspecting public by matching him with poor old John Carkeek, once a world's

EGAN WANTS A RETURN TO FORMER BALL

H. CHANDLER EGAN BELIEVES THAT THE OLD QUTTA PERCHA GOLF BALL IS THE BEST.

If some inventor really has discovered a golf ball that can be driven from 250 to 300 yards on the carry, will not a return to the solid gutta percha sphere be advisable?

Discussion of this proposition by a small circle of players brought the remark from H. Chandler Egan, amateur champion in 1904-5, that a championship tournament played with the old solid ball would relegate a number of players who now rate as first flight performers to a class below.

A Massachusetts writer recently asserted that a few years ago the really high class golfers of that state could be counted on one's finger ends, whereas at the present time there are at least twenty players of about equal skill.

The Egan player, who is a deep student of the scientific side of the game, advanced the opinion that if a return to the old gutta was made, the few golfers who once held sway in the Bay State again would dominate the links. He is taking in his belt that the old ball required far more accurate hitting than the new rubber-cored ball.

Many people are of the belief that the rubber-cored ball can be made to travel farther than the solid ball, but the ball manufacturers who possess machines for trying out their various makes found that, when set at top speed the machine sent the solid ball farther than the gutta, the reason being that after a certain amount of force had been applied the rubber-cored ball flattened, and much of the effect of the impact was lost.

HELD LIVELY PRACTICE.

Anne Young, Charlie Persille, Leavens, Thompson and Jones were out at the old High School grounds yesterday afternoon with their sticks and enjoyed a hard practice. Judging by the enthusiastic manner in which they went at things, somebody here when it was said the proper enthusiasm is not being displayed by players in Edmonton.

SPORT CHIPS

Fred Brown was telling a coterie of friends about an exciting automobile ride he had yesterday.

"We whizzed the corner and struck the sidewalk and I was thrown out bodily and the only thing that saved me was that—an office door chanced to be open at the time and I was an unannounced visitor."

After reading on several occasions about the admiration of a Calgary sporting expert for a young man of Beloufs known as Billy Allen, we have at last been informed as to the identity of Billy. Under a Syracuse date, the Ottawa Press publishes the following:

"Announcement is made that Billy Allen has been matched to meet Sammy Trotti, who used to be called 'Newsboy Champion,' at Youngstown, O., on the 24th of this month in a 12-round go. The boys will meet at 133 at six o'clock."

If Billy is really in Sammy Trotti, the "Newsboy Champion's" class, he surely must be some scrapper, and overlooking the "perfect gentleman" part of it.

While boxing may be receiving its knocks from a Calgary "expert," there is satisfaction in the knowledge that there are too many who are beyond the "stage of education" for the pastime to be injured by such wiles.

Isaacball is far from being a brainless game. There have been many pitchers with $10,000 arms who have gone back to the bushes because they had thirty-cent heads.

Following a trip to New Orleans when he had been flush and had paid the colored keeper of a boarding house for his meal tickets like a millionaire, times broke bad at Detroit for "Neighborhood" Harkness, formerly of Carberry, Manitoba, and well known as a horseman and follower of the turf. With his partner and pal they managed to "beat it" for the next season of racing in New Orleans and upon their arrival, "Neighborhood" struck the colored boarding house keeper for a "hand-off."

"What horses he you carrying now, Mister Harkness?" asked the B. H. K.

"Finest state ones you've ever heard of and money-makers every one," replied Harkness. "I've got 'em. They're St. Louis, Water, Banjo Bill and five two-year-olds. Six meal tickets, please."

BAT NELSON RELATES OF HARD LUCK

FAMOUS FIGHTER DECLARES HE HAS HAD A RUN OF THE OLD JINKS IN LAST FEW WEEKS.

Bat Nelson has been bumping into some hard luck of late, and tells his troubles in the following characteristic letter:

"When I left New York a few weeks ago I intended spending a week at my home before going to the ranch to rest up, but after my arrival found that things were in an awful state. I was touched for two diamond rings the very first day, and rounded one stone up in a hook shop, but found out that they had been pawned to a soldier who was on his way to Mexico. Looks as though it's curtains with that."

"Next day I got a letter signed Black Hand, demanding that I leave $1,000 at a certain spot within twenty-four hours or get shot at my first appearance. The funny thing was that I didn't open the letter until a day late. They ought to give a fellow time enough to deposit the dough anyway, don't you think?"

"Well, then I went to my office to see about the sales of my book, etc., and found that every other page in the book was missing, the account all balled up and the young lady in charge, none. I wouldn't mind her taking a run out if I hadn't been so good to her. I gave her two round-trip tickets from New York, paid her $50 a month, gave her $50 for her birthday and the same on Christmas, but she's gone, and the accounts are as mixed as anything could be. The only thing left there was the furniture."

"The richest joke of all, however, was when I came here to Streator to look over a small frame building I own. He'd leased it to a fellow for a year, but last week he moved out and mailed me nothing but the keys. When I got there I found a man who had been living there came out. He had a big 'For Sale' sign in his hand and was about to nail it up. I asked him what he wanted for the place, and he told me, but it must be 'cash.'"

"I never saw him since. I paid for it. I told him I'd be in the next day to settle the thing with him and take the place. I told him I'd give him my pocket now, and the deed to the property, and all, and will see him in a few hours. I'll knock him dead, eh? Can you beat that for gall?"

INTEREST IN BIG BOAT RACE

London, March 29.—Thousands of spectators, including a liberal representation of the betting fraternity, lined the banks of the Thames yesterday to witness the Oxford and Cambridge crews in their final practice for the big annual boat race. The race will be rowed Saturday over the usual course from Putney to Mortlake, and the general opinion is that it will be a much closer and more interesting contest than that of last year.

WILL MOOSE JAW QUIT.

Moose Jaw, March 29.—Unless some arrangements can be made whereby the city can be persuaded to grant permission for the use of Crescent Park, Moose Jaw will not be permitted to retire from the Western Canada League. An appeal was made to the Parks department last night and this was failed and the directors feel they could not induce the fans to walk out of town to the ball park to attend the game.

WOLGAST TO BOX LA GRAVE

San Francisco, March 29.—The 20-round fight between Ad. Wolgast and Antoine La Grave, which was scheduled off here tomorrow night at the Metropolitan A. C., is attracting much interest in the city. The two fighters are local products, believe it will be able to make a good showing against the lightweight champion.

FAVORS BIGGER PAY

Fisher Jones, ex-manager of the Chicago White Sox, says that if the major league players who want raises would band together they would get them. His sympathies are with the players every time. The club has surpluses of $150,000 and could easily pay big stars, who are deserving of a raise, more money.

Want a Club

CALGARY IS TO TRY AND BRING ABOUT REORGANIZATION OF MOTOR ASSOCIATION.

Realizing that an automobile club is an absolute necessity in an enterprising city and that much good that could have been accomplished has been permitted to remain undone because the association which existed two years ago was allowed to die, Calgary motorists are now making efforts to re-organize. It is stated that certain owners have been too busy making money in real estate to take active interest in organizing the club. A good argument could be made that a feeling is that with a club, better roads would be forthcoming, this would enhance the value of property and would permit of these same people making more money.

BUT HE WOULDN'T STOOP TO THAT

The gambler ducked his old grey neck and tamed his heart of her. "The does have got this run old world. If I don't go I'm a liar." He said this while a look of woe came across his wrinkled brow. And added: "There is no; alas! to deal the bank for now."

"They run a few games here and there for panache and the like. Who hardly know what playing is, but cadize and steal to pike. But gambling! No, there's none o' that as in the good old days."

With cards and dice. They trim 'em now in more high-handed ways.

"I met an old thing dealing guy—we called him hungry Joe. He'd slipped away from Frisco owning me a bunch of dough."

"I tapped him on the shoulder and I said him by his name. And said, 'You look like aces up; come, lead me to your game.'"

"He stuttered, 'You're mistaken,' as by me he tried to slip. But I brought him back smiling when my hand moved to my hip. He asked my pardon for the past; and 'troll along with me, and I'll make it right, you'll see.'"

"He took me to his layout. 'Stocks and Bonds' was on the door. You talk about your come on stunt! I never saw a man like that. Such sticks of your mining truck, piled up like leaves of bread. Said he, 'This is the suckers' meal since lottery is dead.'"

"An old dame with the get rich bug came shuffling through the door. And said she liked the lot so well she thought she'd buy some more. She had a bundle of money, he winked and bowed her out."

Said he, 'Let's set this broken and the half is yours, old sear.'"

"I said, 'You'd better keep it all; I'll try some other day. Those crooked games are not for me, 'cause I'm not built that way. The dogs have got this run old world; if I ain't so I'm a liar.'"

WILL MEET TOMORROW.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball club will hold its annual meeting tomorrow evening at the "Y" at 8:30 o'clock when the season will be organized for the coming year.

Those crooked games are not for me, 'cause I'm not built that way. The dogs have got this run old world; if I ain't so I'm a liar."

They Are Like Faces to Him, Only More So Belled on, He Says.

New York, March 29.—Police Lieut. Faurt, the finger print expert, scored another victory recently. Charles Crisp, charged with larceny, had been in the store at No. 111 West 14th St. on Feb. 22, was held in $5,000 bail by Magistrate Corrigan in the Jefferson Market Court, and the only evidence was the impression of a finger print found on a glass door.

Lieut. Faurt, who has charge of the finger print bureau at Police Headquarters, was the only witness against Crisp, and in testifying explained his method.

"Finger prints are like faces to me," he said, "only they are more to be relied upon, for faces change by nature and can be changed artificially, but finger prints remain the same from the cradle to the grave."

"Most people think that finger prints are so similar that only an expert can detect the difference, but one familiar with the work can find as many differences between the finger prints of two men as between their faces. Twins, too, have been known so closely to resemble one another that they could not be told apart, but we have yet to find two sets of finger prints that could be called twins."

Recognizes His Man at Once.

"When this burglary was reported I went to the place, and on the glass door found the prints of many fingers. I took the pane of glass back to the office and studied the various prints. It was as though the photograph of the thief had been left at the place. All I had to do was to see if I could recognize it."

"Many of the finger prints on the glass were old and could scarcely be deciphered. But there was one set that seemed very fresh, and the moment I saw them they seemed familiar."

"Going through the list of finger prints, I found their duplicate. They were those of Charles Crisp, who served a term in Sing Sing for burglary. Up to that moment the authorities had not the slightest suspicion as to the burglar, but with this positive proof that Crisp had been at that door he was arrested. When he was brought to headquarters a new set of his finger prints was taken. There was not the slightest difference between them and those made over twelve years ago, when he was sent to Sing Sing, and they corresponded with the print on the glass in thirty-four different particulars."

Under questioning by Magistrate Corrigan, Lieut. Faurt said:—

"There is no possibility of mistake. The finger prints taken at Headquarters are identical with those found on the glass door of the store at No. 111 West 14th St. on Feb. 22, and the only evidence was the impression of a finger print found on a glass door."

"From the time a child is three months old there is no change in the convolutions in the skin of the fingertips until death. The hand grows larger, but a finger print made each year from childhood to maturity would show just so many exact duplications in every respect except size. I can so through our files and identify the finger print reproductions there as readily as the man in the Photograph Bureau identifies pictures of the crooks."

"The system has proved infallible. About three months ago a case occurred in London that for a moment threw a shadow of doubt over it. A crook, arrested under circumstances practically the same as this case, proved an alibi so positive that he was acquitted. It seemed as though we had met the 'twin' in finger prints, but after the man had died it was learned that his alibi had been manufactured."

Mrs. Crisp testified that her husband was at home on the night of the burglary, but Magistrate Corrigan declared that Faurt's testimony was sufficient to warrant him in holding the man.

AUTOMOBILE AS ESSENTIAL
AS THE TYPEWRITER OR
TELEPHONE NOWADAYSHugh Chalmers Says We Could Not Abandon the Motor car Now, Even If We Wanted To Do So, It Is Part of Our Life

"Just why it should be so I don't know, but every once in a while some man, in talking about the automobile industry, says: 'Do you think it will last?' I never heard anyone say: 'Do you think the clothing business will last?' 'Do you think we will continue to use typewriters and telephones?' Do you think the bakery business will survive? I have often wondered why people ask this question about the automobile industry. Certainly automobiles have come to be quite as essential in modern life as the telephone and the typewriter—almost as essential as clothing and bread," said Hugh Chalmers the other day, in speaking of the future of the automobile business.

"And quite as often as this question of the future of the automobile industry is asked some one mentions it as a six-room industry. Seriously the automobile industry has had in some respects a mushroom growth, but that it is a proof that it will live, rather, than that it may be a failure. The fact that the business has grown so rapidly shows conclusively the demand for motor cars. The demand was not created it has existed for centuries."

It has always been the ambition of mankind to improve the method of transportation. First, man had two legs tied together and drawn by oxen. Later it worked up to the horse-drawn vehicle. Then came the steamship and railroad transportation, later came electric cars. All of the latter are forms of community transportation. The automobile is the greatest improvement in individual transportation in centuries. Therefore, I say that the demand for automobiles was not created. It has existed for hundreds of years."

Can't Abandon Motor Car

"We can't abandon the motor car now even if we wanted to do so. It is one of those improvements that has made its way into our daily lives. It will be impossible to abandon it because it has proved of too much value to the entire civilized world. We are no more going to give up the automobile than we are going to give up these very necessary things which I mentioned above."

"There will always be room in this country, in my opinion, for at least from 150,000 to 200,000 motor vehicles. As the president of a motor company, it seems to me that if it is not for me to ask whether I am going to stay in the business. Motor cars will be sold along this generation of men in some and forgotten, for the world has learned that wonderful efficiency and it will not give them up now."

I want to show you how much faith the Chalmers Motor Company has in the automobile industry. In the last eighteen months we have sold 8,000,000 in buildings, machinery and general equipment. Now the Chalmers Motor Company is not in the gambling business, but we have simply bet $1,600,000 against the future that the automobile industry is going to last, and that we will be in business as long as any of them. That is what we think of the automobile business."

"Quite recently we had a convention of Chalmers dealers at the factory. There were 160 men connected with the selling end of the business from all parts of the country and from Canada, Mexico, Porto Rico, Cuba and the Hawaiian Islands. That convention showed me one of the wonderful things about the industry, especially in view of all the panic talk that we have heard of late."

"There were 160 men who depended on the automobile business for their bread and butter. They were sitting in a room at the factory from all sides were barred. They were talking among themselves. I will tell you years ago and those found on the doors were made by the same man. Any differences that appear in the two photographs are due solely to the fact that I made a photograph of the print on the glass powder and prepared paper are used to strengthen the lines, while those made at headquarters are especially made to show every eccentricity."

Not a Single Difference.

"In this case the length of every line, the length of every curve, the turning of a line on itself and the width of the lines are the same in the print on the glass and the print on Crisp's own fingers. There are thirty-four distinct eccentricities that are alike in both cases, and there isn't one particular in which dissimilarity can be shown."

"From the time a child is three months old there is no change in the convolutions in the skin of the fingertips until death. The hand grows larger, but a finger print made each year from childhood to maturity would show just so many exact duplications in every respect except size. I can so through our files and identify the finger print reproductions there as readily as the man in the Photograph Bureau identifies pictures of the crooks."

"The system has proved infallible. About three months ago a case occurred in London that for a moment threw a shadow of doubt over it. A crook, arrested under circumstances practically the same as this case, proved an alibi so positive that he was acquitted. It seemed as though we had met the 'twin' in finger prints, but after the man had died it was learned that his alibi had been manufactured."

Mrs. Crisp testified that her husband was at home on the night of the burglary, but Magistrate Corrigan declared that Faurt's testimony was sufficient to warrant him in holding the man."

LONDON MAY SOON BECOME
BOXING CENTER OF WORLD

If the slips that are said to intervene between the "cup and the lip" do not interfere there will be erected in London before many months the largest boxing arena under cover in the world. It will be financed, probably, by the dollars of an American millionaire, and by an American, James E. Britt, one time lightweight, and Hugh McIntosh of Australia and London, who jumped into the limelight by promoting the Tommy Burns-Jack Johnson fight for the heavyweight title.

By the time the proposed structure takes shape, or before, England perhaps will have become the world's boxing center and Johnson, Kaufman, West, Alie Attel, and Sam Langford will have forsaken their familiar haunts in the United States and be signing articles in their London town houses.

Britt and McIntosh have a splendid suite of rooms in Walter House, on the Strand, fitted up in style that would excite the envy of a Standard Oil magnate. McIntosh does the promoting and Jimmy does the matchmaking and together they have progressed a long way toward the realization of their hopes.

In a few months these two hustlers have changed the entire face of the fighting game in this country. Working with energy and intelligence they have accomplished what everybody declared impossible. Previous to last June the first-class boxing game in this country was entirely in the hands of the National Sporting Club. For many years no matches between first-class fighters had taken place except behind its exclusive door. Its members and their personal friends had, apparently, a double breasted monopoly of the sport. The topnotchers performed once a month for the benefit of a few sporting lords and connoisseurs in top hats and open faced suits. In between a horde of second raters and novices performed once a week to whet the appetites of the aristocratic lovers of the sport for the more important monthly contests. The idea of holding boxing matches which the general public might attend was ridiculed.

Last summer Britt and McIntosh came on the scene. They rented the King's hall in South London and began to put on bouts. Let Jimmy Britt tell his own story of how it was done.

"When we first looked over the field, here," the ex-fighter said, "we found that one of the chief reasons why the fighting game did not appeal to the British public was because of the absurd English system of conducting matches. The National Sporting Club's weekly events were and are typical. Boxing begins soon after 7 o'clock and a never-ending series of novice competitions is staged. The contestants, many of them, never have been in the ring before and you can imagine what a farce it all is. On three nights of the month only mediocre men appear, and it is only on the one big night of the month that anybody approaching first-class ability makes his appearance."

"It was predicted that we could not handle popular crowds which were bound to make up a large part of our audiences. The police would not come in to preserve order, so we police our hall ourselves. We have hired a large force of 'hussies' and private detecttives who effectually prevent any disorder. Furthermore, our prices keep most of the rougher element out of the hall. Our lowest priced seats are 60 cents, the next are $1.25, and the reserved seats are $2.50.

"So popular have our shows become that the Olympia Annex, which will seat 5,000 people under the London County council rules, but would hold 8,000 the way they seat them in the United States, already is too small to accommodate the thousands that clamor for admission. The new hall will be located close to the Waldorf Hotel and the Gaiety Theatre, and we have estimated that it will cost about $125,000. It will seat 15,000 people and when it is not being used for boxing we figure on letting it for other purposes."

"Of course the crop of fighters is not as good here as it is in the United States. The principal reason why the American boxer is superior in skill to the English is because he develops his style along his own lines. He may learn the fundamental rules of the game, but he never sticks to them. He always is learning something new, some way of surprising his opponent. The English boxer sticks through thick and thin to the orthodox methods and an opponent always knows what he is going to do."

The bewildering pace set by Britt and McIntosh has had the effect of waking up the old National Sporting Club, which now declares its intention of re-building its famous clubhouse in King Street, Covent Garden, thereby increasing its extremely limited seating capacity.

FOUND SNAKE IN PACKED APPLE

A Novelty Is Discovered In a Barrel at Cobourne.

Cobourne, Ont., March 29.—An apple with a rather snake in it, which is a curiosity reported from Cobourne, where it was found in a barrel of Den Davis which was being repacked at a Cobourne fruit house.

The snake was over half an inch in diameter and about eighteen inches in length.

The supposition is that it made its way into the barrel while it was in this orchard and not finding a way of escape decided to seek winter quarters by imbedding itself in the finest specimen of Den Davis it could select.

It is stated that the apple which was a big one, was perfectly sound around the opening in which the serpent was imbedded. It is one of the most novel occurrences that apple men have yet met with.

FARMERS TO USE HYDRO-ELECTRIC

Ontario Municipalities are Supplied With "Juice" at Ten Dollars Per H. P.

Something of the work that is being done by the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, in the development of the industries of the Province, was outlined in conversation with Mr. Shanz, who has been engaged in the construction for the commission for some time. Mr. Shanz has just taken a position with the electric light and power department of the city.

Since the summer of 1909, when the construction of the line was commenced by the commission some 300 miles have been built, and seventeen towns and cities of Ontario are now taking advantage of the cheap power which has been made possible by the development under provincial control of the business of power distribution. This summer the line will be completed to Windsor, 170 miles from the source of supply, the furthest point from the generating plant.

A movement is on foot among the farmers of the province, said Mr. Shanz, for the application of electrical energy to the performance of such farm operations as churning, churning feed, pumping water, and illumination, and the comfort and convenience of farm life promise to be greatly enhanced by the cheap power which is being brought within the grasp of the agriculturist. At Tillsonburg, an effort is being made to get special rates from the commission for farm purposes, and this is being favorably considered by the government body.

At Guelph, power is delivered to the municipality by the commission at 2 1/2 cent per horse power per annum or 1/4 cent per kilowatt hour.

Power is transmitted over the commission's lines, at 110,000 volts, the highest pressure which has yet been used for electrical transmission on the American continent. It is transformed 13,000 at sub-stations, which form centres of distribution to surrounding towns. At this pressure it is transmitted by radiating lines some twelve miles in length.

One effect of the advent of the new source of supply, under government control, has been a lowering of the rates of many of the companies doing business in Ontario cities. The London Electric Co., which is one of the principal sufferers, complains that the government is supplying power below the cost of generation, in order to obtain a monopoly of the business.

The following towns are already served by the power lines of the Hydro-Electric Commission: Dundas, Hamilton, Guelph, Berlin, Asper, Galt, Preston, Waterloo, New Hamburg, Stratford, St. Mary's, London, Woodstock, St. Thomas, Paris, Brantford, Tillsonburg.

NOTABLE WEDDING IN WASHINGTON D.C.

Daughter of German Ambassador Becomes Wife of Count Pourtales, German Attaché.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—Not in a long time has the capital witnessed such an outpouring of distinguished representatives of official and resident society as filled Concordia Church, a modest little place of worship of the German Lutheran denomination, at the wedding this afternoon of the Countess Luise Alexandra von Bernstorff, daughter of the German ambassador and Countess von Bernstorff, and Count Raymond Pourtales, an attaché of the German embassy.

The wedding was a notable event both in social and official circles, for the guest list included the names of the President and Mrs. Taft, Vice-President and Mrs. Sherman, the members of the cabinet, justices of the supreme court, senators and representatives, foreign diplomats and many other officials and their wives. Owing to the limited accommodations of the church only about 600 guests were invited to witness the marriage ceremony, but the wedding reception that followed at the German embassy was attended by several thousand persons well known in social circles in Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and a number of other cities.

The little church was a bower of white lilacs, white roses and apple blossoms when the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, walked up the flower-marked aisle. The usual custom of a wedding in Germany were followed, with an adoption also of the forms in vogue in America. Following the custom of the fatherland, the bridegroom escorted the Countess von Bernstorff. The bride had no maid of honor, but was escorted to the altar by her father, preceded by four bridesmaids—Miss Alya Meyer, daughter of the Secretary of the Navy; Miss Elsie Aldrich, daughter of ex-Senator and Mrs. Aldrich; Miss Greta May, who is soon to be the bride of Mr. Robert L. Bacon, and Miss Mary H. Southard, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Southard.

Instead of a best man there were four ushers for the bridegroom. They were Count Guenther von Bernstorff, brother of the bride; Jonathan H. M. van Weede, secretary of the Netherlands' legation; Lord Eustace Percy, British attaché, and Baron Harlebrook, German attaché. The four ushers chosen according to American custom were Count Rieck-Polischewski, Austrian attaché; Major von Herwarth, German military attaché; Commander Peitzmann, German naval attaché, and A. C. Horsmann, German attaché.

The marriage ceremony was in accordance with the ritual of the German Lutheran church and was performed by the Rev. Paul A. Meitzel, pastor of Concordia Church.

A coincidence of today's wedding of special interest in the United States is that the mother of the bride and the stepmother of the bridegroom, both were Americans. The wife of the German Ambassador and mother of the bride was Miss Jeanne Luckemeyer of New York, while the stepmother of Count Pourtales was Miss Helen Barclay of New York City and Tuxedo.

The bride was born in Berlin twenty-two years ago and when she was eighteen she was given a brilliant debutante party at the diplomatic court in Cairo, where her father was then minister from Germany. Since coming to America in 1908 she has been extremely popular in Washington society life and noted for her beauty, her wit, and social charm. In spite of her youth she is a thorough-going cosmopolitan and speaks several languages fluently. The acquaintance of the bride and bridegroom began a year ago when Count Pourtales first came to Washington. This marked the Count's entry into the diplomatic service. Previously he had served six years in the Berlin Guards. The Count, who is twenty-eight years old, was born in Switzerland and educated in Munich. His father, Count Hermann Pourtales, was a soldier of the German army. His mother died in 1888 and two years later his father married Miss Harber. Count Hermann Pourtales died in 1904 and his widow has since continued to live in Europe, spending her summers in Germany and her winters in Rome.

SUPREME COURT.

Appeal against the decision of Chief Justice Harvey in the case of Evans vs. Evans is entered in the court of appeals to-day. In the original action, which came up for trial in September of last year, Mrs. E. C. Evans of this city, sued her father in law, Edward Evans, for the recovery of a couple of horses which had been placed in his care and which he, it was alleged, declined to return. The defendant contended for a number of horses which were in the plaintiff's possession, claiming that these animals, as well as those which he had refused to return, were his own property. The Chief Justice in giving judgment for the plaintiff last fall severely castigated the defendant for the manner in which he had acted in the dispute. C. A. Grant appeared for the plaintiff in the action, and E. B. Williams and H. H. Robertson for the defence. The same counsel are appearing before the court en banc in the appeal.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

Anderson, Ind., March 28.—The case of James Walker, who, several weeks ago, shot and killed Chief of Police Ellis and Patrolman Kirkman, came up for trial yesterday. Walker, who was a glass worker employed in Alexandria, is alleged to have engaged in the hold-up of a storekeeper on the day of the double tragedy. He was indicted, in the act by Patrolman Kirkman, is alleged, and the killing of the latter followed. Several hours later, while resisting arrest, Walker shot Chief of Police Ellis, who died two days afterwards. Rufus Warren, a young friend of Walker, is to be tried as an accomplice in the robbery and an accessory to the murder. Walker has already pleaded guilty to the indictment of robbery, but will stand trial on the charge of murder.

DISCUSSES DEFENSE OF PACIFIC COAST

Curious Result of Recent Congress at San Francisco Was That 25 Regiments of Infantry be Added

Seattle, March 28.—Discussing the problem of the defense of the Pacific Coast, a subscriber of The Times observes that a curious result of the recent Pacific Slope Congress at San Francisco was the recommendation that twenty-five regiments of infantry be added to the mobile army of the United States.

Public sentiment looks not unnaturally for business or other local reasons upon which to found a request to the national government for protection from what in its last analysis is not merely a local, but a national danger. Possessor by a vague fear, it seeks vague means of relief. But there is still another and greater reason for this confusion of mind. The danger, if it be danger, is military in cast.

The Pacific Coast, in common with all the rest of this great land, has no proper conception of the means to be employed to meet a military danger, because our whole system of military defense has been built on false lines and has been, and will remain so long as we follow the false and foolish ways of the past, a mockery and a sham. Only in the fact that the truth of this is beginning at last to dawn upon us lies hope of better things. The people at large flounder in a morass of military ignorance, but are less to blame than all of the military and naval services which have throughout our whole history been involved in confusion almost as deep.

Dependent Upon Men.
To put the matter briefly, within and without the services we have been taught both by precept and example to depend for national defense upon machines instead of men, while every line of our own history, as well as of all world history, should have known us that neither national defense nor military success has ever been dependent upon machines, but has always depended upon men.

The creation of a great naval fleet and the isolated position of this country, it has been urged, would afford it all the protection against foreign enemies that it might need. Neither of these propositions is correct. This country is no longer isolated. Battleships are mere machines. They never have and they never will of themselves determine finally the result of war. There never has been and there is not now any certainty that they may even avert war. Without men, not merely on them but on shore behind them, they are well nigh helpless.

Bought Protection in Machines.
With the creation of such a fleet under way came dim realization of something of this sort, but too dim even then, fortunately, for the truth itself to appear. Fast in the clutches of the false gods we had so long followed, we sought the further protection that seemed necessary, not in men, where it lay, but in more machines. We clutched upon the vast scheme of coast fortifications that we have built and are building, and from whatever strength the navy that we have created has given us we must subtract the undeniable weakness that these coast fortifications have, in the absence of men, engendered.

For these fortifications also are machines, and, without men, not merely within them to serve their guns, but behind them and on all sides of them, they not only are practically of no avail, but are a positive menace to us.

And so we may go on. We may develop the special corps, perfect the auxiliary services, build large aerial fleets, line the coasts with heavy guns, dot the seas with battleships, and we shall still be unable and unfit to defend ourselves against an aggressive and powerful foe, because we have neglected the fundamental principle of providing men and planned our faith in machines.

Fear Men of Another Race.
What our people of the Pacific Coast fear is not ships nor guns, but men of another race and color and faith that threaten and overbid the country that shall come in numbers sufficient to ours. What is needed then to repel such an invasion we must look to other men or machines or both.

Following long custom the Pacific Coast now looks to machines. It wants a battleship fleet in the Pacific and

About The Time It Takes For A
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet to Work
On The Food And Bring Relief.

TRIAL PACKAGE SENT FREE.

There is no long wait between the time you take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and the feeling of relief it will bring to an overloaded stomach. It gets busy in a play and quickly sets things to rights in that tired and disordered stomach. It goes right at the work of digesting the food it finds lodged there and in no time at all has things on the move—the gases cease forming, the breath is sweetened, the coating on the tongue disappears and you are no longer conscious that you ever have a stomach.

That is one of the chief recommendations for Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—they they don't take forever to accomplish the purpose for which you need them. It is just as if you put an extra stomach or two to work when yours needed help. You can't continually overload your stomach and expect it to always smile. It is going to get rebellious and balky after awhile and refuse to go on being driven to do double work. You must not, it is absolutely—not be starving and thereby weaken the system, but by using a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet to do the work of the natural stomach.

These tablets contain all the active elements of the gastric juices, and in this way alone and unaided digest food just the same as the natural stomach. In this way alone and unaided digest food just the same as the natural stomach. In this way alone and unaided digest food just the same as the natural stomach.

They do not affect the system in any way. They do not cure any ailment except as they digest food. Use them freely.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists everywhere. Price, 50 cents per box. A trial package will be sent if you will write F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart St., Marshall, Mich.

wants more coast guns along its shores. Let us consider these views separately. Let us consider first a battleship fleet for the Pacific.

If the entire United States Navy could be transferred to the Pacific Coast, and maintained there, we may admit, for our purpose here, that so long as it is kept intact and hugged more or less closely to the Pacific coast, no foreign enemy would attempt to send troops to effect a landing on that coast. So much for the power of the machine.

Not a Wise Course.
It would not be making the wisest use of the navy; it might expose us to a similar danger on the other coast; it would probably be effective for the present and sufficient for our purpose.

We have only to consider, then, the possibility of transferring the entire fleet to the Pacific Coast, and maintaining it there. The transfer of the fleet is possible theoretically, but wholly impracticable. Its maintenance there is practically either in theory or practice.

Neither machines alone nor machines were installed nor one battleship at hand. Helpful as both are useless of themselves and without the protection afforded by mobile troops, are expensive luxuries and serve no higher purpose than the satisfaction of national pride.

The solution of the Pacific Coast problem then lies not in the hope of a more coast defense, nor in any other two-ocean navy, nor in the installation of kind of machine or combination of machines, but in the presence on the coast of men suitably trained and in sufficient numbers not only to make an intending invader pause but to oppose him on the land. Men—not machines—is the answer to the problem of the Pacific Coast.

ANOTHER REASON FOR ARMY BEING ON THE FRONTIER

Mexicans are Ill-treating U. S. Citizens and Arresting—Them Even Talk of War At Present.

Washington, Mar. 28.—(Special)—The solution of the Pacific Coast problem then lies not in the hope of a more coast defense, nor in any other two-ocean navy, nor in the installation of kind of machine or combination of machines, but in the presence on the coast of men suitably trained and in sufficient numbers not only to make an intending invader pause but to oppose him on the land. Men—not machines—is the answer to the problem of the Pacific Coast.

This situation, it was learned to-day, is another reason for the mobilization of a quarter of the standing army in Texas on actual war footing.

Fake Battle.
Douglas, Ariz., Mar. 28 (Special).—Six hundred Mexican federals, under command of Col. Ojeda, marched from Agua Prieta early to-day to attack the Insurrectors under General Blanco, near Nigger Head, a rugged peak in the mountains, nine miles east of here. United States cavalry, under command of Captain Johnson, were immediately ordered on to the border to "violate" of the neutrality laws, it being expected that the two forces would be engaged in battle within a few hours.

The small army began its march before dawn and the line of marching troops could be seen only vaguely in the darkness. Shortly after the federal troops left, a report reached here that Blanco heard of the attack planned, and had fled further into the mountains.

Muster's Fight.
Blanco is said to be acting under direct orders of General Naderro, the Provisional President, that under no circumstances must he fight or attempt to fight if there is any chance of his losing the battle.

Two hundred more Insurrectors from the province of Chihuahua have joined Blanco's forces.

Burdock Blood Bitters Cures all Skin Diseases

All diseases of the skin are, more or less, directly occasioned by a bad state of the blood, and it is absolutely impossible to eradicate them from the system unless you put your blood into good shape.

The following skin diseases are curable by Burdock Blood Bitters through its wonderful cleansing, purifying powers on the blood, and its renovating action on the system, viz., Salt Rheum, Tetter, Scabies, Scurf, Erysipelas, Itching and Burning Rash, Ulcers, Sores, etc.

"I have been bothered with salt rheum, on my hands, for three years, and it itched so I did not know what to do. I tried everything but nothing seemed to be any good. I heard of Burdock Blood Bitters and bought two bottles of it, and now I am perfectly cured and have no salt rheum on my hands any more."

"I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters."

Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

HE WON IN LOVE

"We got some sad cases," said the attendant at the Balmi Lunatic asylum to the interested visitor, and opened the door of the first cell.

Inside was a man sitting on a three-legged stool, gazing vacantly at the wall.

"His is an unhappy story," said the attendant. "He was in love with a girl, but she married another man, and he lost his reason from grief."

"They stole out softly, closing the door behind them, and proceeded to the next inmate."

This cell was thickly padded, and the man within was stark, staring mad.

"Who is this?" inquired the visitor. "This?" repeated the attendant. "This is the other man."—Till-Bits.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC ENGINES

The Company Is Building Many New Engines for Its Increasing Passenger Service in the West

The Grand Trunk Pacific is building for its passenger service, engines for the Pacific coast end of its line at the present time. The Baldwin Locomotive Works have an order for five of the type to be used and the last copy of the Railway and Marine World states that six of that type are being built at the company's works in Montreal, which would indicate that eleven are under order. The locomotives will weigh about 315,000 pounds with the tender when ready, or over 170 tons.

The Railway and Marine World, referring to the locomotives, says: "During the past few years the weight of express passenger trains have increased to such an extent that it has become necessary, on many roads, to employ six-coupled locomotives in high-speed service. For work of this character, either the ten-wheeled or Pacific type is usually selected. With the same maximum load per driving wheel, the Pacific type shows no superiority over the ten-wheeled type, as far as adhesion weight is concerned; and hence at slow speeds the traction force developed by the two classes should be approximately the same. The Pacific type, however, possesses greater boiler capacity, and this is a distinct advantage in high speed work, where long grades must be negotiated."

The Baldwin Locomotive Works have already built five Pacific locomotives for the Grand Trunk. They are known as Class P according to the railway company's classification. The traction force exerted is 31,500 pounds, and with 131,500 pounds on driving wheels, the ratio of adhesion is 4.45. They were built in accordance with drawings and specifications furnished by the Grand Trunk Railway.

The boiler used in this design is of the extended wagon type with wide firebox. The longitudinal seams are extirpated riveted and welded at the ends. The side water legs of the firebox slope inward as they rise; the staying is radial, and the front end of the crown is supported on four rows of expansion links. The firebox opening is formed by flange iron both sheets outwardly, and uniting them with a sleeve. The master mechanic's standard front end is used, with a short extension and tapered stack. The furnace contains a brick arch, supported on four water tubes, each three inches in diameter.

The steam distribution is controlled by balanced slide valves, driven by Stephenson's link motion. The rockers are placed between the first and second pairs of driving wheels immediately in the rear of the links, and each rocker is connected with the corresponding link by a short transmission bar. The valve rods are necessary to the link and are supported by the guide yoke. This plan of motion dispenses with heavy transmission bars, such as are necessary when the links and rockers are placed on opposite sides of a driving axle.

Your Danger From Kidney Troubles

BEGINS WHEN YOUR BACK ACHES.

Backache is the first and the sure sign of kidney disease.

When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way.

Next to the heart, the kidneys are, perhaps the most important organs in the body. It is no wonder then that if the kidneys are affected the whole system must be affected.

On the first sign of backache Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go right to the seat of the trouble, heal the delicate membranes of the kidneys and make their action regular and natural."

Mr. E. J. Sahlner, Lake Annis, N.B., writes: "I have taken a great deal of pleasure in telling you the benefit I have received from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was suffering from kidney trouble for several years, my back was weak, I had terrible headaches, and was so restless I could not sleep at night. I contracted Doan's Kidney Pills and in a very short time I was right and fit again."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c. per box or for $1.25. All dealers of mail order on receipt of price by The T. M. Lumber Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

U.S. DEMOCRATS WANT FREE TRADE

They Are Already Preparing for the Introduction of Reciprocity—May Put Through Original Bill.

Washington, D.C., Mar. 28.—It is the expectation of Chairman Underwood that the Democratic members of the house commission, on ways and means, will begin work on tariff questions some time during the coming week, and that by the time the extraordinary session of congress is convened on April 4, some plan will have been mapped out to govern the commissions of the procedure after the bill, to carry out the Canadian reciprocity agreement has been framed. The most complex question that will come before the commission is whether any tariff question will be placed upon the Canadian bill as riders or whether such schedules as the commission decides should be revised shall be treated, as separate measures.

The certainty that hearings will be demanded by producing and manufacturing interests affected by any proposed revision of the tariff may determine the ways and means commission not to complete the Canadian question with consideration of such schedules as wool, cotton, or agricultural implements. The majority of the commission is a union in favor of the agreement and it is believed that the decision will be to keep it separate from the tariff matters and take up the schedules after the Canadian bill has been sent to the senate.

Contrary to the general report, Representative Peters of Massachusetts will not introduce the Canadian bill which will be ready almost immediately upon the convening of the special session to carry out the terms of the agreement.

30 YEARS OF SUCCESS

A. Archibald Offers a Remedy for Catarrh—The Medicine Costs Nothing If It Fails.

When a medicine effects a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when we offer that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These are facts which we want the people to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Mucuo-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of curable success to his record.

We receive more good reports about Rexall Mucuo-Tone than we do for all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew of a thoroughly dependable remedy, Rexall Mucuo-Tone, it would be the only catarrh remedy we would have any demand for.

Rexall Mucuo-Tone is quickly absorbed and by its therapeutic effect tends to disinfect and cleanse the entire mucous membrane of the throat, destroy and remove the parasites which injure the membranous tissues, to soothe the irritation and heal the soreness, stop the mucous discharge, build up strong, healthy tissue and relieve the blood and system of diseased matter. Its influence is toward stimulating the mucous cells, aiding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

Will you try to Rexall Mucuo-Tone, beginning a treatment today. At any time you are not satisfied, simply return your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Mucuo-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Edmonton only at our store—The Rexall Store. A. Archibald.

Correct Spring Millinery
At Prices to Suit all Pocketbooks

Our showing of new Millinery is now at its fullest. Our importation of trimmed hats, untrimmed hats, flowers, wings, fancy feathers, millinery braids, etc., is the most complete and best selected in this city, and besides all this we give the buying public advantages not to be had elsewhere.

Our Pattern Hats from $8 to $65
Are the talk of the town.

The Popular Price Trimmed
Semi-trimmed and tailored hats at $2.50 to $10.00, are wonderful values for the money.

Flowers, Silks, Ribbons, Chiffons
Mallies, feathers, ornaments, grasses, wreaths, trails and laces are used extensively for trimmings this season.

P. S.—A special feature of our trimmed hats is that we have no two alike.

The "FAVORITE" Commands the Consideration of Every Prospective Range Buyer

Our display of these magnificent ranges in our lower salesroom has been the means of greatly increased interest being taken in them by the public and has succeeded in convincing hundreds of the truth of our oft-repeated assertion that the "FAVORITE" was the finest range on the market. Not only has it the best appearance—we don't lay great stress on this because we realize that this must remain a matter of taste—but on examination of the several parts, how they are made, how they are finished and assembled, convinces beyond question that the "FAVORITE" has every other range shaded. It is a steel range; it is cord riveted; it will stand any heat without fear of fire cracking, blistering or looking at the joints. As to the cost, it is no more than other high grade ranges, according to size.

We will gladly arrange terms with responsible people.

LABOR TEMPLE TO COST OVER $60,000

Spokane Unions Will Have Magnificent Quarters When New Structure Is Completed.

Spokane, Wash., March 29.—Four stories high, built of concrete reinforced and stone and covering a site 50 by 12 feet, will be the labor temple to be erected this year by the trades unions of Spokane at a cost of $60,000. The features of the structure will be a gymnasium, reading and lounge rooms, a plunge 30 by 100 feet, eleven halls with seating capacity ranging from 100 to 1,500, a large auditorium, 12 office suites and two store rooms. The lighting, heating, water and ventilating systems will be the most modern in practical use. The money is being raised by selling stock to members of the local organizations. David G. Coates, chairman of public works, acquired the first $10 share for $63 at an auction. The unions are now meeting in different parts of the city, paying a total rental annually of $8,500 for halls and offices. While Spokane cannot be regarded a strictly union city, an open shop policy is maintained by the largest employers, the various trades are well represented and their relations with employers are cordial.

LAUNCH OF THE SOMERSET

Gardner, N. J., March 28.—The Somerset, one of several magnificent steamships in the added this year to the fleet of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation Company, was launched today at the Camden yards of the New York Shipbuilding Company. The Somerset will depart from Baltimore, Savannah and Jacksonville. The vessel is 333 feet long and will have accommodations for 120 first cabin and twenty stateroom passengers.

OPERATION WAS VERY SUCCESSFUL

Tumor Removed From Pituitary Gland of Patient Who Will Recover.

Spokane, Wash., March 29.—Modern surgery achieved a signal triumph when the removal of a tumor from the pituitary gland of the brain, a rare and difficult operation, was successfully performed at Sacred Heart hospital in Spokane. The patient, Miss Maude Kemp, formerly of Ransford, Wyo., who was three months in preparation, was on the table four hours. She rallied quickly and recovery is expected. The Hasted operation, first performed in Chicago, was carried out by Dr. Labau, assisted by Drs. H. E. Wheeler, H. P. McNeil and O. M. M. and Sister Nazette, and was witnessed by 25 physicians and 50 nurses. Among the visiting surgeons of the day were Dr. Solomon W. Shafer of John Hopkins University, Baltimore, and Dr. M. W. Wells of the University of Pennsylvania in the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia. The disease, known as acromegaly, is rare and fatal in the majority of instances. It causes the feet, hand and nose to swell to several times their natural proportions, distorts the features and results finally in blindness and paralysis. Only 15 operations are known to medical science.

INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

Home, March 28.—The international exposition for which preparations have been making for many months was formally inaugurated today by King Victor Emmanuel. The event was presided over by brilliant ceremonies in which representatives of many nations took part. The exposition is the first of the long series of international exhibitions in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Kingdom of Italy.
